

Determinants of air conditioning adoption and its role in future energy demand in the French residential sector

André Mounier^{1,3,4}, Louis-Gaëtan Giraudet^{2,3}, and Philippe Drobinski⁴

¹Agence de l'environnement et de la maîtrise de l'énergie (ADEME), Angers, France

²ENPC - Institut Polytechnique de Paris, Champs-sur-Marne, France

³CIREN – ENPC, AgroParisTech, EHESS, Cirad, CNRS, Nogent-sur-Marne, France

⁴LMD – IPSL, École Polytechnique - IPP, ENS - PSL, Sorbonne Université, CNRS, Palaiseau, France

Sunday 23rd February, 2025

Abstract

Keywords – Adoption, Air-conditioning, Adaptation, Energy

Contents

1	Introduction	3
2	Descriptive analysis of air conditioning in mainland France	4
2.1	Socio-geographical distribution	4
2.2	Historical sales of different types of systems	4
3	Equipment and adoption modelling	5
3.1	Construction of the building stock	5
3.2	Adoption behaviour rules	5
4	Integrated air conditioning development scenarios with Res-IRF	6

1 Introduction

2 Descriptive analysis of air conditioning in mainland France

2.1 Socio-geographical distribution

2.2 Historical sales of different types of systems

3 Equipment and adoption modelling

3.1 Construction of the building stock

3.2 Adoption behaviour rules

4 Integrated air conditioning development scenarios with Res-IRF